Welcome to TH Köln!

When you first arrive at our university, there'll be lots of new things and information to take in. Getting Started aims to provide a fast-track guide to student life at TH Köln. In addition to your actual program, the university's Library, Department of International Affairs and Academy of Continuing – to name but a few – offer a multitude of opportunities to promote both your professional and your personal development.

This guide brings together everything you need to know about these services along with a list of contact details. Whether you're interested in the student association meetings or need advice about something, just pop by – we'll be happy to answer any questions you have.

25,000 students are currently enrolled at our university. Of these, 64 percent are male and 36 percent female students. In total, TH Köln offers 50 Bachelor's and 50 Master's programs as well as career-integrated models and part-time programs parallel to professional employment.

Our culture
Project-based, interdisciplinary teaching

Your program will start of differently to before the Covid epidemic. Some of your classes and lectures will be online, mainly using three tools (ILIAS, TH*spaces* and Zoom), which are outlined on page 7.

During your time with us, you'll also often come across concepts such as "university-wide inter-disciplinary project week", "flipped classroom" or "problem-based learning" – all learning/tea-ching formats that go beyond the traditional style of lecture.

We use problem-based and project-based le-arning to develop scenarios that specifically re-flect situations in which you'll find yourself in your future career. This often entails working on real projects for companies, institutions and so-ciety. Another approach you'll encounter is "in-quiry-based learning", in which you'll be in-volved in professors' research by carrying out projects of various sizes or you'll help develop study materials for future students. It's also quite common for students to collaborate on a project with peers from other programs. So we give you more freedom than you're used to from school but we also expect you to take on more responsibility for your own learning. There are also tutors and mentors on hand – usually students from later semesters – to sup-port you during the initial stages of your pro-gram. The faculty student associations will be happy to help too. You can find out more about them on page 14.

We believe that a feedback culture is an import-ant part of good teaching practice. During your program, you'll get to participate in evaluations by rating your seminars and courses and tel-ling us about your experiences and what ch-anges you'd like to see. There's also a feedback management office that you can contact about anything you want to discuss. For more infor-mation, turn to page 11.

Your basic tools at TH Köln
MultiCa, campusID, WiFi and IT

Your Student ID Card: The MultiCa
You have received your MultiCa by mail after your enrollment. This card will play an important role in your everyday life at TH Köln. The multifunctional smart card serves as your student ID card, your library and copy card and it gives you access to the university lockers.

What data is saved on the card chip?
Only the serial number of the card, your student ID, a status indicator (in your case, student), the University library number and the period of validity are saved. Only the amount of your credit is saved on the card but no information on what it was used for.

You will find all current regulations and further additional information on: th-koeln.de/multica_en

campusID

Your campusID is your personal university account. It is generated automatically for you when you enroll. Your username and the initial password for your first login have been sent to your private e-mail address.

To activate your campusID, please follow the instructions in the e-mail. After activating your account, you can choose an individual password.

Once your campusID has been activated, it will give you access to a broad range of university services, such as your university email account, ILIAS, PSSO or the university Wi-Fi.

You will find further information and instructions on: th-koeln.de/campusid (in German)

WiFi

Eduroam, the university Wi-Fi service, does not only give you internet access at TH Köln's sites, but at every campus of an Eduroam university around the world. However, your device must comply with a few specifications. For information on the specifications and on setting up your Eduroam access go to: th-koeln.de/eduroam (in German)

VPN

You can access all services available on the TH Köln university network via a VPN connection, even from home or on the go. To access the university's internal services, you will need to install the Cisco VPN client on your computer, notebook or smartphone. Different versions of the Cisco VPN client are available. For more information and instructions, go to: th-koeln.de/vpn (in German)

Email

Your campusID will give you access to your personal TH Köln email address. TH Köln uses this address to provide you with important information on your studies. That is why it is important that you check your emails regularly. Usually, this email address has the following structure: firstname.surname@smail.th-koeln.de

You can reset your campusID password via the campusID website. The Forgot your password? function gives you access to your personal account, where you can choose a new password. The Forgot your campusID? function will send your campusID username to you.
For further information and instructions, go to: th-koeln.de/campusid

Forgot your password?

You can use a webmail service to conveniently access your emails through your web browser. It is not necessary to install a separate email client. To access your emails via webmail, use the following link: http://webmail.th-koeln.de (in German)

You will need your CampusID to log into the webmail system. Alternatively, you can access your emails via clients such as Mozilla Thunderbird, Outlook, or Apple Mail. You will find the necessary configuration data and further information on our website.

The campusID Center (campusid.th-koeln.de) also allows you to forward incoming emails to a private email address.

You will find further information and instructions on: th-koeln.de/smail (in German)

ILU

ILU is an open-source learning platform that you will use in your everyday life at our university. On ILU, teaching and learning materials can be created and shared online. Furthermore, students as well as lecturers may interact and collaborate on this platform.
https://ilu.th-koeln.de/

TH*spaces*

TH*spaces* is another important tool for your everyday life at TH Köln. It is a social learning environment for digital learning, where students and professors can create virtual study rooms. There, they can communicate during classes, consult with each other in project teams, create portfolios or publish project documentation. Homespace, the front page of THspaces, allows you to publish announcements, suggestions or tips, or to comment on them.
spaces.th-koeln.de

Zoom

Zoom Meeting Education is a web conference service for up to 300 participants. All students at our university can use the service, as a browser version or as an app. All you need to do is register with your email address or CampusID.

Hochschulbibliothek (Library)

TH Köln's four interconnected campus libraries provide extensive information services for students. Their wide selection of resources, the browsable online catalog and numerous specialist databases mean you benefit from a varied range of information, specifically tailored to the programs at TH Köln.

PC workstations, scanners and copiers round off the information infrastructure. All digital media, like ebooks and ejournals, can also be accessed from home via a VPN.
The library's YouTube channel has a number of "how to" videos (in German) with guidance and tips on how to use the library's services, VPN access and the borrowing process. If you need additional assistance to find what you're looking for, the service desk staff at your campus library will be glad to help – in person, by phone or by email.

Akademie für Weiterbildung (Academy of Continuing Education)

Life-long learning and constantly expanding the personal education process – our Academy of Continuing Education offers a wide range of services for all TH Köln members as well as for professionals. Together with the Sprachlernzentrum (Language Learning Center), the Kompetenzwerkstatt (Skills Factory) and the Schreibzentrum (Academic Writing Center), the Academy offers a variety of seminars and workshops to assist students throughout their studies as well as to prepare them for their future career: In addition to language courses, students may take courses on academic writing, communication and teamwork skills as well as leadership competence. All seminars are free of charge for students enrolled at TH Köln.

PSSO stands for Prüfungs- und Studierendenservice Online (Online Examination and Student Services). PSSO offers students the possibility to easily organize administrative matters such as:
- Updating address and contact details
- Printing certificates of enrollment and BAföG certificates
- Printing transcripts of records and accessing information on examination results
- Registering for or withdrawing from examinations
  Exception: It is currently not possible for most exchange students to register for or deregister from examinations using PSSO. Only exchange students at the Faculty for Business, Economics and Law and the Faculty of Architecture can register for examinations using PSSO. All other exchange students will be informed on the terms for examination registration by the International Office or by their faculty.

Password/initial access to PSSO
Once your campusID is activated, you will be able to log on to PSSO. Similar to online banking, you need a TAN for using PSSO. You receive the first TAN list by mail along with your MultiCa. If you would like to request a new password or initial access to PSSO, our Campus IT's service team will be glad to assist you. Please note that such requests must to be filed in person at TH Köln's Campus IT. Please make sure to bring identification documents with you (such as ID or passport). You will immediately receive your new login details.

If you have any questions about PSSO, please contact our Office of Student and Examination Services (for contact details see page 8).

Please visit the following link to find PSSO's login, operating instructions as well as further information on your login details or to request a new TAN list:
www.th-koeln.de/psso_en

What is PSSO?

Innovative

Zentrale Studienberatung (Central Academic Advising Office)

The Central Academic Advising Office advises all students on matters regarding their studies. This may include additional qualifications and continuing Master's programs, social issues such as study financing, student accommodation, dates and deadlines or on answer other questions arising during your studies.
th-koeln.de/studieninfos (in German)

Career Service

The university's Career Service advises students on employment opportunities both within and outside of academia. It also offers workshops and seminars (including for graduates), can help you find an internship or a thesis topic and runs a mentoring program for female students.
th-koeln.de/career-service (in German)

Department of International Affairs

The Department of International Affairs works closely with other parts of TH Köln to perform a wide range of tasks. They include shaping and driving the university's internationalization efforts, organizing a variety of activities and international academic placements for students, and advising TH Köln's international community.

Whether you're looking to go abroad to study, do an internship or attend a summer school, the International Mobility team are the people you need to talk to. We'll advise you on what you need to do and what funding is available. The Degree-Seeking Students team is the first point of contact for international students. If you have any questions regarding residency/ employment law, rules for entry into Germany, visa requirements, or cultural activities and sports in Cologne, feel free to get in touch any time.

If you need advice, we'd be happy to schedule a meeting with you. You can also reach us by phone or email, or arrange a personal Zoom meeting with us.

work and experimentation

TH Köln supports creative and innovative work in a variety of ways. For example, all students can use the MakerSpace at the Deutz Campus for this purpose. There you can try out 3D printers, virtual reality glasses, 5G technology and much more. You will also find support for your innovative ideas in the Coworking Space as well as in the Inkubator Südstadt and the Cologne Game Lab Incubator at the Mülheim Site.

The KickStart@TH Cologne support program offers you additional financial support of up to € 7,500 as well as coaching. And with the Certificate Entrepreneurship you can even have your commitment certified.

MultiCa stations

Students may charge money on their MultiCa at one of our MultiCa stations using your debit card (EC-cart). The stations can be found on the location maps on the folding plan. You can find up-to-date information on the use of your MultiCa on th-koeln.de/multica_en

Validating stations

At the beginning of each semester, your student ID card 'MultiCa' needs to be validated, i.e. the chip is activated for the current semester. MultiCa stations are indicated on the location map. Current information on validating the MultiCa is available at:
th-koeln.de/multica_en

Mensa (Cafeteria)

The dining halls ('Mensa') are operated by the Kölner Studierendenwerk (KStW). The menu changes every day and includes vegetarian and often also vegan options. Additionally, every dining hall has a salad bar. The KStW also operates numerous coffee bars and bistros that offer snacks and beverages. Accepted payment methods are debit and credit cards as well as Google Pay and Apple Pay.

Studying with childrens

Studying while being a parent is a particular challenge. TH Köln supports you when studying with children or relatives requiring care. The Family Services Office offers advice in person or by phone on:
- Reconciling studying and family life at TH Köln
- Finding suitable day care
- Financial support for parents during pregnancy and following childbirth
- Information for caregiving relatives

Family Services Office

Baby-care rooms can be found on the location maps on folding map (th-koeln.de/sites).

Studying with disabilities

A disability does not have to be an obstacle: This is why TH Köln offers students with health impairments the possibility to enroll in a disabled-friendly degree program. You are provided personal and confidential advice from the officer for students with disabilities on different issues such as special applications, living and accommodation, study assistance as well as disadvantage compensation. Please visit the following link for further information on your support: th-koeln.de/best (in German)

Parking lots and toilets can be found on the locations maps (th-koeln.de/sites).

AStA (General Students' Committee)
The General Students' Committee called AStA is the executive authority for students' self-administration at a university. The General Students' Committee is elected by the Student Parliament and represents the students' interests regarding the university. The General Students' Committee offers advices on legal matters, study financing, studying with children, examination issues, working and social insurance. Additionally, it is the contact for international students, students with disabilities or chronic diseases as well as for students with general worries and needs (psychosocial support).

Need to talk?

TH Köln, the AStA and the Kölner Studierendenwerk (KStW) provide various psychosocial consulting services for students having trouble or problems during their studies – no matter if it is stress, personal crises or you simply have the need to talk to someone. th-koeln.de/studieninfos (in German)

Fachschaft (Faculty Student Associations)

The Faculty Student Associations do a lot more than organizing the freshmen introductory events. Its members advise students throughout their studies. Besides providing lecture notes, they help students drawing up their timetable and provide them with information on examination regulations, e.g. what to do if you cannot take an exam due to illness and how to review your exam. You may drop by with any concerns during office hours.

By the way: A Faculty Student Association includes all students of one faculty or institute. Thus, you already became a member with your enrollment. All students can put themselves up for election. New members are welcome.

Gateway – Entrepreneurship and Start-Ups

You have an idea, want to create something new, try something and fulfill your ambitions? You have come to the right place – Gateway TH Köln provides advice and support, whether you only have a first idea or already specific questions on your start-up project. Gateway TH Köln offers young entrepreneurs advice, coaching, financing as well as co-working and networking opportunities.
